HOW TO NAVIGATE GENDER BIAS IN THE WORKPLACE

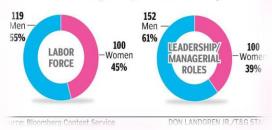

Gender bias is the tendency to give preferential treatment to one gender over another. It is a form of unconscious bias, which occurs when someone unconsciously attributes certain attitudes and stereotypes to a group of people.

In this session we will unpack some of the ways in which gender bias shows up in our workplaces and the barriers women face every day from an intersectional lens. We will also explore the role that we can all play, especially men, in order to create more equitable processes which can lead to more women in positions of power.

- What is gender bias?
- Why talk about gender bias at work?
- The facts about gender bias
- How does it show up in our systems and decision making?
- How to become an ally
- Commit to action.

Gender inequality in the workplace

WOMEN IN THE WORKPLACE

According to McKinsey we are in the midst of a "Great Breakup." There are always winners and losers in the war for talent, and the stakes are higher than ever for companies that want to achieve gender equality. Join us as we discuss the facts, why women are finally demanding change and tangible ways we can address the issue in a way that prioritizes flexibility, employee well-being, and diversity, equity, and inclusion.

In this session we will unpack:

- Representation of women in the workplace

- Why women are leaving the workplace.
- What are the risks if we don't address it?
- Intersectional experiences
- The importance of more flexibility
- The role leaders have to play.
- What can we do?
- Commit to action.

ADDRESSING GENDER BIAS WITH AN INTERSECTIONAL LENS

Intersectionality is a term used to describe the idea that social relations involve multiple intersecting forms of discrimination. This means that a person might experience several forms of discrimination, such as sexism, racism, and ableism, all at the same time.

In this session we will talk about how our power dynamics and social systems are complicated, and how to address using them using intersectional approach.

- What is intersectionality and why does it matter?
- Why is intersectionality important?
- The impacts on power dynamics and social systems
- How to use an intersectional lens to address gender bias.
- Commit to action.

RISE AND LEAD: EMPOWERING WOMEN FOR SUCCESS

pg. 2

This Women's Leadership Workshop is designed to empower women-identifying employees by providing them with tools to boost their self-confidence, overcome self-doubt, and recognize their unique strengths and abilities. The workshop also encourages participants to identify their passions, align them with their career goals, and explore opportunities to integrate their interests into their work. Participants will address and navigate potential obstacles to develop a plan to create a fulfilling and purpose-driven career.

UNITED BRILLIANCE: CULTIVATING COLLECTIVE EMPOWERMENT IN THE WORKPLACE

A survey conducted by Catalyst found that women who have had a mentor are more likely to aspire to leadership positions and report higher levels of career satisfaction. Mentorship is shown to positively influence women's career advancement, skill development, and overall professional growth. This workshop will give participants the tools to expand their network through the power of mentorship. Whether you are an aspiring Mentor or Mentee, this workshop is for you!

SPECTRUM OF SUCCESS: NURTURING BRILLIANCE FOR WOMEN OF COLOR IN THE WORKPLACE

This workshop addresses the unique challenges women of color face in the workplace and creates inclusive environments where they can thrive. The content will provide insights, strategies, and tools to organizations and individuals to foster an atmosphere that values and supports the success of women of color. This interactive workshop will encourage participants to assess their areas of immunity/privilege, navigate microaggressions, become intentional allies, and shift the culture around them.

SHADES OF STRENGTH: EMPOWERING WOMEN OF COLOR IN THE WORKPLACE

The workshop acknowledges the impact of systemic barriers and biases on the well-being of women of color. The session provides a dedicated space for women of color in the workplace to recharge, find support, and cultivate a safe and empowering environment. Through guided discussions and group activities, participants will discover self-advocacy strategies, explore self-care practices, and have the opportunity to connect with fellow women of color.

UNDERSTANDING AND APPLYING ANTI-OPPRESSION

Understanding equity in practice. Engaging in conversations around common language and terms aligned with anti-oppression, anti-racism, and inclusion. Uncovering our own motivations to incite positive actions through each of our own avenues of access.

APPLYING ANTI-OPPRESSION IN FILM/TV

Examining power dynamics in commercial production. Through conversations, encourage thinking through scenarios that can be encountered and how we can intervene for positive change. How to create a more inclusive and authentic work environment for everyone.

ANTI-OPPRESSION WHEN WORKING WITH CREATIVE YOUTH

Explore effective ways in which to apply anti-oppression as a lens and tool when collaborating with diverse youth in a community setting. Emphasis is placed on how the arts can be used as an accessible and useful teaching tool to explore critical equity concepts in an accessible and engaging way, through your role as a facilitator and space holder.

ALLYSHIP 101

This diversity, equity, inclusion, and belonging (DEI&B) interactive workshop provides the fundamental building blocks for understanding allyship. This can be used as a broad overview of the concepts listed above or it can be used to pull the information together from the first four training courses to begin to practically apply the information. Concepts include: • Reviewing DEI&B, Unconscious Bias, Microaggressions, & Privilege • Practicing How to Use Your Privilege to be a Good Ally • Understanding the Importance of Education and Avoiding Tokenism • Reflecting on the Difference between Active

Listening and Empathic Listening • Practicing Responding to Microaggressions Effectively • Understanding the Importance of Active Allyship •

ANTI-HARASSMENT WORKPLACE TRAINING

This workplace anti-harassment training meets the requirements of the most stringent states (California and New York.)

The presentation includers a mix of power point slides, videos, and discussion. Some states like California require that management antiharassment training be done live and require interaction with the participants. Session Description: Even though diversity and inclusion discussions should always begin with the positive promotion of being fully inclusive, it is still very important to provide basic anti-harassment training. This session provides:

- A short introduction on the positive aspects of diversity and inclusion since most often the negative can be avoided by a focus on the positive
- An overview of the different kinds of workplace harassment, what may lead to it, and how to avoid it.
- The impacts that harassment can have on a company.
- A summary of a company's and managers' responsibilities around harassment.
- As required by recent California and New York law changes, the workshop includes an overview on sexual orientation and gender identity, and how they fit within the harassment discussion.
- Review of the manager's role handling workplace harassment
- A short intro on being a successful leader in a diverse environment.

RECOGNIZING & RESPONDING TO MICROAGGRESSIONS HOURS

Defining and recognizing microaggressions Large Group Activity: Unpacking Hidden Biases Understanding the hidden biases and negative impacts of microaggressions Small Group Activity: Exploring Microaggression Examples Conflict Management & Crucial Conversations Responding to microaggressions effectively Small Group Activity: Response Strategies & Practice Session

MOVING FROM BYSTANDER TO UPSTANDER

Incidents of harassment and discrimination based on race, ethnicity, color, sex, gender, sexuality, religion, expression, age, socio-economic status, natural origin, ancestry, disability, genetics, and other critical components of identity can have significant impacts on individuals and their ability to cultivate a keen sense of belonging in a group or organization. However, these harmful incidents can be even more damaging when there are bystanders who witness the behavior and do nothing in response. There are many strategies that people can use to move away from being a passive bystander into being an active upstander. Responding effectively during incidents of harassment and discrimination helps support individual people with marginalized and minoritized identities while also upholding collective community values of inclusion and belonging.

THE 5 D'S OF BYSTANDER INTERVENTION

The Five D's are different methods you can use to support someone who's being harassed, emphasize that harassment is not okay, and demonstrate to people in your life that they too have the power to make the community safer.

This workshop will allow participants to explore the negative impact of discriminatory behaviors, feel empowered to be upstanders during incidents of bias or harassment, and implement the 5Ds of response methods that are helpful for several types of situations.

EXPLORING & MITIGATING UNCONSCIOUS BIAS

Defining unconscious bias Several Small Group and Large Group Activities: Exploring biases and unpacking assumptions and stereotypes Exploring the different forms of unconscious bias Matching Game: Types of Bias Understanding the negatives impact of bias in the workplace Case Study Review: Bias in the Workplace Mitigating the negative impact of bias in the workplace

CHALLENGING ASSUMPTIONS

Participants explore the many facets of identity from race to sexual orientation to gender and even spirituality, and the ways that they connect and overlap. We will discuss the aspects of our identities that seem to appear on the surface and challenge the ways that we often unknowingly create assumptions about people's experiences. The facilitator will share about own life journey and invite participants into reflections about where power and privilege lives in our society, and what we can all do to create more just and equitable working environments.
